

For a distant procedure:

1. You have contacted a professor authorized to supervise your PhD research (Professor or HDR - list according to the laboratory). That the very first step of your application process.
2. Your academic supervisor contacts the ED secretariat, communicates your name so that you can obtain by email a link and a password to enter the AGIT system;
3. On the AGIT website you download the doctoral student's charter and your training agreement.
4. After completing the field and signing the documents, send them by e-mail to the secretariat of your laboratory so that they can be signed by all the parties involved (this is called the "signature circuit": the thesis director, the laboratory director, the doctoral studies officer and, at the end, the ED directorate).
5. Send all the documents to the ED secretariat with your PhD project (5 pages), your CV and a transcript of your higher education records (Master or else).
6. Once you have received the documents, you can start the administrative registration procedure (see the website of the university to which you are attached-. The document authorizing the pedagogical registration will be one of the documents to be sent to finalize the administrative registration.
